Investment strategy

The investment manager focuses on companies with potential for long-term dividend growth and selects securities whose dividend growth stems from different sources to construct a fund that has the potential to withstand a variety of market conditions. At least 80% of the fund is invested in shares of companies from any sector and of any size anywhere in the world, including emerging markets. The fund is concentrated and typically holds shares of fewer than 50 companies. The fund can invest in other funds and cash or assets that can be sold quickly. It can use derivatives to reduce the risks and costs of managing the fund.
